In Person Access to Academic Libraries

SUNY Empire encourages students who may need access to print books to investigate academic libraries in their local communities as a way to supplement the Online Library's electronic resources. SUNY Empire's online library has hundreds of thousands of e-books, and can purchase ebooks upon request, request book chapters, articles, and other digital materials for students. Students who wish to locate specific print materials not available in the Online Library can Ask a Librarian (<http://www.sunyempire.edu/AskALibrarian/>) for help.

Through the SUNY Open Access Program, Empire State University students and employees have access to the print materials of SUNY's two and four-year college and university center libraries. A similar agreement is in place with the City University of New York (CUNY) library system, covering all library facilities.

To check out circulating books from these libraries, students must present a valid Empire State University ID card. All SUNY Empire borrowers agree to obey all rules, regulations and policies that are established by the lending library. In addition to overdue fines, borrowers who have lost or not returned library materials also will be charged processing and/or replacement fees. Students with outstanding fines to a SUNY or CUNY library may have a hold placed on their student account.

Copyrighted Materials: Their Reproduction and Use

Use of Copyrighted Materials

SUNY Empire State University complies with the U.S. Copyright Act of 1976 and the Digital Millennium Copyright Act of 1998.

SUNY Empire respects the intellectual property rights of those who create and/or publish original works of authorship in any tangible medium of expression, whether physical or digital media, and regardless of format or genre. SUNY Empire, therefore, authorizes use of copyrighted materials only under the following conditions:

- When permission is obtained from the copyright owner, or
- When reproduction, dissemination, creation of derivative works, performance or display of copyrighted materials falls within Fair Use guidelines, which are explained on the library's copyright website (<https://www.sunyempire.edu/library/copyright/>), or
- When performance or display of copyrighted materials in a face-to-face classroom environment falls within Educational Use guidelines.
- When performance or display of copyrighted materials in an online educational environment falls within TEACH act guidelines.

Using Copyrighted Works Online

Reproduction, dissemination, performance, display and creation of derivative works from copyrighted works may be permitted under the Fair Use Exemption of the Copyright Act of 1976. A helpful guide to determine if a use is allowable is if it passes the Four Factor Test (<https://subjectguides.sunyempire.edu/copyright/fairuse/>).

Neither the nonprofit status of the University nor the educational nature of the endeavor are sufficient to automatically judge something Fair Use. There is no set guideline for number of words, number of pages or percentage of a total work that can be used.

Posting Multimedia in Online Courses Under the TEACH Act

As of January 2014, SUNY Empire is TEACH (Technology, Education and Copyright Harmonization) Act compliant. The TEACH Act allows educators to use some copyright protected multimedia materials in online courses without gaining prior permission and/or paying royalties. The content can be an image or audiovisual, but it must not be textual (the written word.) It also cannot be intended for the educational market (such as a video on a CD that accompanies a textbook.) The content can only be posted inside a course in the Learning Management System (Brightspace), and only for as long as the students of that course need to have access to it. It must be captioned with the copyright and citation information. If it is nonfictional and nondramatic, there is no limit to the amount that can be posted; however fictional or dramatic content is limited to brief clips. TEACH Act applies only to materials that are posted for learning activities that are analogous to mediated instruction during class time in a face-to-face classroom setting. The TEACH Act must not be used to post materials that are used for research, reading assignments, homework or extra-curricular activities.
